Commencement of Occupational Vaccination for New Coronavirus Vaccine

In order to reduce the burden of vaccination on local communities and to accelerate the vaccination process, the government has made it possible for companies and universities to start vaccination on a per-worker basis.

Thus, the University will begin vaccinations for all members of the university community (students, faculty, staff, and those who work on campus).

We are planning to start on the week of June 21, but first priority will be given to those who have a pre-existing condition, international students and students planning to study abroad, and students, faculty and staff engaged in occupational vaccinations, then followed by other students, faculty, and staff.

Inoculation will be done by appointment only, and the schedule will be allocated to each faculty and affiliation, and a notice will be sent.

This vaccination program is only for those who wish to be vaccinated, and it is not mandatory for university activities, nor is it disadvantageous for those who do not receive the vaccine.
